Dear Minister,

Joint industry letter on further PRN price concerns

On behalf of the retail, food and drink manufacturing, and packaging manufacturing industries may we congratulate you on your appointment as Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State. You have taken on a critical remit at a time when decisions are required that will have a major influence over businesses, society and the planet now and for years to come.

One of the most pressing issues facing the consumer goods industry at present are the huge price increases this year for Packaging Recovery Notes (PRNs). These are adding tens to hundreds of millions of pounds to compliance costs in 2019 without any evidence that the additional money is being used to improve the recycling system. Unless swift action is taken the economic viability of some firms will be under real threat.

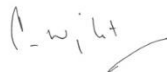

Since writing to your predecessor nearly three months ago (see attached letter dated 5th July 2019), prices for plastic and aluminium PRNs have remained very high despite some indications that they may fall. The situation is now becoming acute for the industry as we approach the year end with some businesses recording a 10-fold increase in plastic PRN prices from last year. This price rise is both unbudgeted and unsustainable for businesses, adding major financial pressure at a time when significant resources are required to prepare for leaving the European Union.

Given that the situation has now become business critical for our members we seek an urgent meeting with yourself at your earliest convenience to discuss the impact and our proposed solutions.

Yours sincerely
